The Peninsula to Plate Competition - Section 14

Convenors: Jody Tuckwell Email: Peninsula2Plate@gmail.com Jody: 03 325 1970 Introduction: The Peninsula to Plate competition is designed to promote Banks Peninsula produce and provide farmers with feedback not normally available. Prime lambs will be judged in three classes: on the hoof by stock agents, on the hook at Harris Meats abattoir and then for taste and texture on the plate. The final judging will be conducted live at the A & P show. The overall champion will be the lamb with the highest combined score from the three sections. Rules/Regulations: The competition is limited to 40 entries. Initially only one entry per person/couple/cooperative will be taken but competitors can register interest in a second entry (provided it is from a separate property or of a different breed). In the event that 40 single entries are not received by the closing date, the remaining places will be assigned to those who registered interest in a second animal (in the order that those registrations were received). Please supply full contact details when entering as well as the breeding (be specific) the lamb. If you consider your entry to be a fine wool lamb please make specific mention upon entry. 'Fine wool' applies to lambs with a Merino or Polwarth maternal sire. Other breeds may be classified as fine wool at the convenor's discretion - if in doubt, feel free to ask. Lambs must be new season (born after 1st July 2016) and should fall between 40 and 50 kilograms live weight at judging 'on the hoof' (9th Jan, 2017). Lambs outside the weight range may be accepted but their hoof section score will be penalised. Entries must have been raised on the Banks Peninsula - defined as the area formerly the Banks Peninsula District Council (if unsure, contact convenor for details). Animals must be in good health and all withholding periods for treatments must be observed. All entries must be accompanied by an Animal Status Declaration (ASD). Entries must be confirmed with the convenors (Jody Tuckwell) by closing date for show entries (16th December) using the email or phone numbers below. While entries made through the secretary (Heather Henderson) will be accepted, please be aware that the first 40 competitors on the convenors list will be those accepted. Final judging (taste and texture) is from 2-4pm on Show Day in the Peninsula to Plate Marquee; due to time constraints only 20 lambs will progress to the Beef and Lamb New Zealand Hotplate. 17 places will be allocated based on the combined scores from 'hoof' and 'hook' sections. In recognition of fine wool breeds' tendency to provide excellent meat but score poorly on the hook, up to 3 places will be reserved for the top placed fine wool lambs after the hoof and hook sections. Any fine wool lambs that qualify within the top 17 places will count towards the 3 reserved places, allowing a corresponding number of general category entries to be added. Entry Fee: the fee is tied to the price of lamb. Each entrant will be paid the scheduled price per/kg for their lamb (calculated at the time of slaughter by Harris Meats Abattoir). The entry fee will constitute 50% of the carcass value after a small processing fee is deducted. Entrants may donate the remainder of the carcass value but are by no means obliged to do so. Sponsors: PGG Wrightson, , Banks Peninsula Transport, Beef and Lamb New Zealand, The Little Bistro, Three Boys Brewery, Little River Vet, Ralph Ogg Contracting, Paul Whitsey Fencing, Whiskey Galore.

Class 1401 On the Hoof

Judging: Judged at the sheep-yards Awa Iti domain, on the 9th of January by Mr Greg Stevenson. Contestants are responsible for organising transport for their lambs to the domain by 10am. We are happy to assist in organising group transport with other entrants in your area and will make contact to confirm transport approximately 1 week prior to judging. This year we hope to have a lamb 'drop-off' operating in the Little River area in the week leading up to judging to help entrants who are otherwise busy around that time. Please contact the convenors for more details. First Prize for On the Hoof ? Rosette and Cash Prize donated by Paul Whitsey Fencing ? $60 Voucher from the Little River Vet
